

Marcela Porporato, Associate Professor, School of Administrative Studies, LA&PS

My research focuses on management control systems in turbulent environments, whether they are characterized as dynamic organizational forms (strategic alliances or joint ventures) or unstable macroeconomic environments (regional economies in emerging economies, Latin America). Being a professional accountant (CPA, CMA) allows me to work with owners and managers to address issues faced in their organizations. Given the focus of my research, my work is mostly exploratory due to the lack of an accepted general theory.
